The document appears to be a form or checklist related to degree requirements, possibly for a music major. The text is filled with course codes, titles, and prerequisites, indicating a structured outline for academic planning. The content includes sections for different semesters, with courses listed under various categories such as Area A, Area B, Area C, and so forth. The text is formatted in a way that requires reading naturally, indicating that it is a part of a structured academic plan or guide. However, without additional context, the specific details of the requirements or courses cannot be accurately transcribed.
